SOMETHING ABOUT
ACRE CORN CONTESTWILL HOLD CONVENTION
Woodmen of the World to Meet in Grand Rapids.

While it is yet some two years before the event will occur, still it was decided at the W. O. W. convention held at Waukesha last week to hold the 1817 convention of the order in this city. The reason for this meeting being set so far ahead is because this order holds a convention only once in two years, and the 1917 meeting will be the next one.

The delegates from this city that went to Waukesha were Dr. C. A. Boorman, Carl Fahrner, Herman Dahlke, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kruger and Mrs. John Noyes. These delegates decided before leaving Grand Rapids to bring the next convention here, and it appears that they made good. The delegates from here were supplied with buttons which called attention to the fact that Grand Rapids was a candidate for the 1917 convention, and these, in connection with a speech made by Dr. C. A. Boorman swung things our way.

There is no question but what Grand Rapids residents will do what they can to make it pleasant for those that attend.

THE LAW AGAINST TIPPING.

The Wisconsin law against tipping has been passed and will become effective on the first of September, 1915. As to whether the new law is a good one or not, will depend largely whether it is being told by a person who tips or one who is tipped.

Some men who are on the road much of the time claim that it is impossible to get any service in many places without constant tipping, and that the drain during the year is considerable. These men claim that the abolishing of the tipping system will be a good thing, and that it ought to have been done long ago.

It would seem as if it would be more pleasant to receive regular wages than to depend upon the charity of patrons of a place for ones wages.

While the new law may affect some people to a certain extent, it is probable that tipping will continue in the future somewhat the same as it has done in the past.

Wisconsin has so many utterly dead laws upon her statute books that another one or two will not cut any figure.

Notice to Auto Drivers.

—Owing to the large amount of traffic that uses the bridge during the daytime and evening, automobile drivers are hereby cautioned to use great care in crossing that structure, and not to drive faster than 8 miles an hour. Also to drive slowly when rounding the corner at the Wood County Bank, and at other places in the city where the view of cross streets is obscured and there is danger of collision or damage to pedestrians.

The police of Grand Rapids have no desire to impose hardships upon the auto drivers of the city, but it is the intention to arrest those who drive over the bridge at a reckless rate of speed. The large number of automobiles in the city this spring makes it imperative that drivers should exercise greater care than ever before.

They tell a story about a fellow and his automobile here in town, which is quite amusing to the one who did not have the experience. It seems that the man was a new driver with an auto, and one day recently while out riding below Nekosha he had some slight trouble with his ignition system, which to him seemed quite serious. The result was that he and his machine off to one side of the road and coming to town sent one of the local garage men down after the car. Imagine the surprise of the mechanic when he arrived on the scene to find that a nearby farmer had ran the car into his barn, and being more or less of a mechanic, and of an inquisitive nature, he had taken the car to pieces to find out how it looked inside and discover, possibly, what was the matter. Of course it was enough to make anybody but a first class mechanic swear, especially as it took him several hours to get the parts gathered up and back into place, so that the car could be run back to this city again. It is not stated whether the farmer put in a bill for what he did on the car or not.

The time is, when a man of the household goes forth with a spade, a hoe and a rake and maketh a garden in his back yard; and he watcheth the growth of the young vegetables day by day and is much pleased; but, lo! behold! he goeth forth to look up, on his garden on the ninth day of the third month and he findeth it not, for the chickens of his neighbors have laid waste the tender plants and radishes and the crispy lettuce. And the evening and the morning and at noon-time of the tenth and eleventh and succeeding days, the man who had a garden but now hath it not, standeth with a shotgun, lying in wait for the chickens of his neighbors.

A new law which went into effect this month, provides for the registering of farm names with the register of deeds. The owner of any farm may give it a name and have that name registered in a special book kept for that purpose. Upon payment of a fee of 25 cents he can also select a name which has been previously registered in the same county.

A penalty is provided for the use in advertisements or otherwise of farm names which have previously been registered as the name of any other farm in the same county.

Fiddies was sitting on one rail of the track when the engine struck him, killing him instantly. Fiddies escaped from the asylum by jumping through a window, and he was missed a few minutes after he got away, but nothing could be found of him until he met his death by the train. He was a man about fifty years of age.

DAY AND SUNDAYWorld Film Corporation Presents
Bouris Michelens in "Mignon"
From the Famous Opera.

"Mignon" in its lyrical form on the grand opera stage, enjoys a popularity which began half a century ago and has increased rather than diminished with the passing years. This is due to its picturesque and stirring plot, which lends itself so well to film dramatization.

George B. McMillan, who was with Sherman during the Civil war, and during the winter of 1864-65 visited the city of Columbia, S. C., when that city was entered by the northern army, had a silver medal given to him by one of his comrades. The medal, along with numerous other war relics, has been in the possession of Mr. McMillan ever since. Several years ago he started a correspondence with parties in Columbia with a view to restoring the medal to either its original owner or some of the heirs.

The medal had the original owner's name engraved on it, made it possible to set a clue to the heirs, and the result was that Mr. McMillan stopped in Columbia on his way home from Florida and made the necessary arrangements. The following from the Columbia State, a daily newspaper published in that city, may be of interest to our readers.

George B. McMillan, who was in Columbia 50 years ago last February, as a member of Company A, 16th Wisconsin regiment, and who at that time was given by a comrade a handsome silver medal, the property originally of Miss Elliott, returned to Columbia last night, expressly to place the medal in the hands of Gov. Manning, for restoration to the owner or her heirs.

The medal is star shaped and is engraved on its face "Awarded to Miss Elliott, for the best crocheted hat." (Note the engraver's original spelling of crocheted).

Mr. McMillan is returning to his home in Grand Rapids, Wis., from a trip to Florida. He said that he had forgotten that the medal was in his possession until two or three years ago and since then had not until now found the opportunity he desired of bringing it back to Columbia.

Reaching Columbia last evening Mr. McMillan registered at the Imperial hotel and thence came directly to the office of the State. He recalled that after the Federal army had entered the city, he was directed by the provost marshal, Col. Waddell, to go to the home of Col. Taylor—"it stood but a few blocks east of this point," he said—"for the protection of a number of ladies there assembled. Three of these he distinctly remembers because of two incidents.

"Next day," he said, "I was arrested in the street by the provost guard, which was picking up stragglers, and while being conducted to the 'bull pen' passed one of these ladies, Mrs. Scott. I told her that it was through protecting her that I got into trouble. She pointed me out to Gen. Wood and he relieved me from arrest and ordered me to escort her back to the Taylor residence."

"Two of the young ladies at the house I guarded were the Misses Amelia and Laurie Glover. Several years after the war I received a South Carolina newspaper in which the wedding of one of them was described. C. W. Schwede as superintendent and principal being in order and C. W. Schwede declared elected.

Nominations for superintendent being in order and C. W. Schwede declared elected. Nominations for principal being in order and C. W. Schwede declared elected.

LOCAL RESIDENT
RESTORES RELIC.

The new building erected by the Polish Catholic residents of the west side was used by the church society on Sunday for the first time, when Rev. F. R. Ciesewski held services there.

The new building contains school rooms, residence for the sisters and a large assembly hall and will be used for both school and church purposes. The building was destroyed by fire last May and the society had to wait for a new building, and ready for use so soon. Since the other building was destroyed the society has held services in the east side church, which was rather inconvenient, as the distance was rather far to walk. The new building was designed by Architect A. F. Billmyer, and is a very neat and handsome structure.

Fairly Good Catches are Reported by Local Sportsmen.

Thursday, April 15th, was the opening of the trout season in the country, and if there has been any doubt about their being plenty of fishermen in the past, no such condition exists this spring, as every creel in the city was full of quota of fish, and now would have thought by the number that were out, that the general public had a great love for the finny tribe, and all that was standing between them and happiness was a morsel of brook trout.

Some of those who went down to Chester creek that morning to fish, returned during the day, stating that the creek was not much more than a trickle, but that the water was being held up by the dam, and it was impossible to get near enough to the stream to get a line in. They may have drawn upon their imagination a trifle in telling the story, and still there is no doubt but what there was plenty of men and boys out on the job.

The day was an ideal one for fishing out of doors, and those who did not stay at home at the weather was warm enough so that it reminded one very much of spring, and the conditions were all that could be desired. Everybody seemed to get some fish, and many made some very nice catches, both in size and number.

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa. — "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health. I had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache. "After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 3146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

Women Have Been Telling Women for forty years how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It will pay you to do so. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

GREAT OCEAN to OCEAN HIGHWAY

IN UTE PASS

HE European war has focused attention more strongly than ever before upon the idea embodied in the phrase, "See America First." Thousands who have been in the habit of spending their vacations, winter or summer, abroad are scanning the map of the United States with renewed interest and are discovering that natural attractions, scenic wonders and traditions, scarcely dreamed of by the tourist, are to be found within the necessity of making an ocean voyage.

With the great impetus which the automobile has within recent years given to touring and with the rapid development of better roads, the motorist has been traveling the highways and byways in search of scenes that are new and roads that are good. This year, 1915, will see a great stream of travel from east to west and west to east—attracted by the two California expositions and by the novelty of a transcontinental tour by motor.

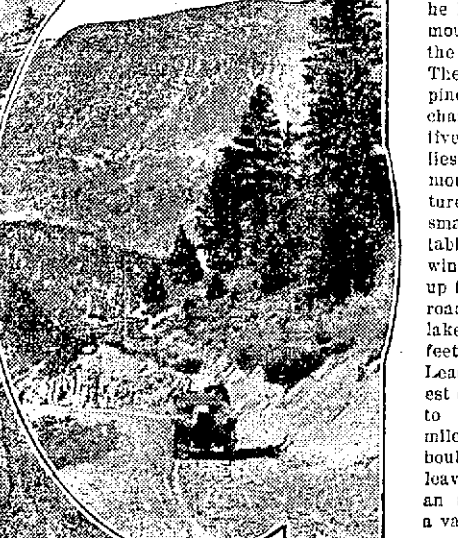

Definite routes have been established, and the automobile owner now has almost as great a choice of routes as has the traveler by train. A truly remarkable work has been done within the last few years in developing highways and linking them together into interstate and national roads. They are named and marked, mapped and pictured until it is the exception for the motorist to find himself on a nameless route.

The latest of the transcontinental highways is the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway. This road is being developed by an association resulting from the federation of several strong state units.

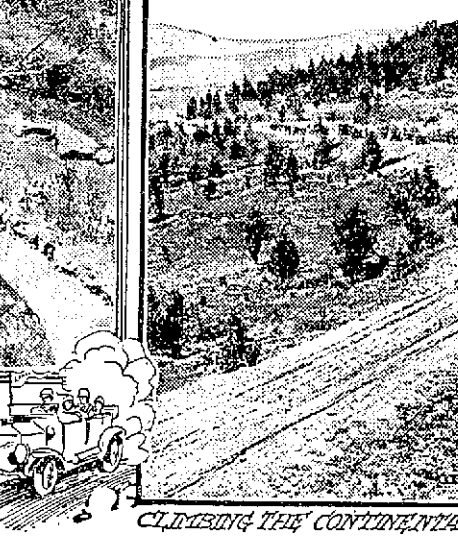

The Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway has a distinctive organization from Terre Haute, Ind., to Salt Lake City, Utah, with splendid connections at both these termini. At Terre Haute it joins with the National Old Trails road, which carries it through Indianapolis, Columbus, Wheeling, Cumberland to the national capital, Washington, and thence to New York city. From Springfield, Ill., it also has a good connection through Toledo, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany and down the Hudson to New York city.

From Terre Haute, it continues westward through Springfield, Ill., crossing the Mississippi river at Hannibal, Mo., thence in a direct line over the Hannibal-St. Joseph Cross State highway through Missouri to St. Joseph. Here it joins the Rock Island highway through northern Kansas, through Belleville, Norton and Colby, to connect at the Colorado line with the Pike's Peak route through Limon to Colorado Springs. Here it enters the mountains through Ute pass, and after crossing the South park, begins the ascent of the continental divide which is achieved, just beyond Leadville, on a 4 per cent grade over an improved road. The top of Tennessee pass, 10,400 feet above sea level, is the highest point on the road between the two oceans, and now begins the descent to the Pacific side. The thrilling ride over Battle Mountain is followed by the peaceful Eagle River valley, which leads into the Glenwood canyon, where the road follows the Canyon of the Grand River to Glenwood Springs. At Rifle, the highway turns northward from the railroad, through Meeker, Colo., Vernal, Roosevelt and Duchesne, Utah, to Provo and Salt Lake City. At the Mormon capital it has several connections westward, both to the north and south of the lake, via the Lincoln highway through Reno to San Francisco, or the road by way of Tonopah to either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

A look at the map will show that the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway crosses the central part of the United States in a line as straight as the contour of the country will permit; that it traverses a section rich in natural resources, of diversified commercial agricultural and mining interest; of varying topography; a section of the United States of historic associations, and that it cuts through the heart of the Rocky mountains and makes accessible magnificence and grandeur unrivaled in all the world.

To demonstrate the feasibility of this highway, there was held last summer an official inspection trip from St. Joseph to Colorado Springs, followed by a reliability run from that point to Salt Lake City. Regarding that portion of the road between St. Joseph and Colorado Springs a member of the official party said: "This tour holds no dreariness, no weariness, no monotony. This is pleasant thoroughfare. The meeting that was the forerunner of this trail was held in March, 1912, and so busy have the promoters been that you can speed along the whole way at a rate of from twenty-five to thirty-five miles an hour—and we did. Markers everywhere tell you when and how to turn. Hospitality greets you on every hand. There are long level stretches in Kansas; you'd be disappointed if they weren't. You run through them just long enough to get enjoyment out of the scene, and then you dip down into the most delicious valleys and around wooded trails and through bays and dells. You always think of toiling up teams and clouds of dust and a dreadful thirst when you turn your mind toward western Kansas. But the real truth is that traveling through this country—and east to Colorado as well—is a delightful surprise. You get just enough of everything you've heard about as being there, and never too much. You see jack rabbits, and prairie dogs, and red houses, and tumble weed—and silos and cornfields—cornfields extending as far over the divide as you can see—and wheat until your eyes get tired of distance. Eastern Colorado is the biggest surprise. You are fascinated throughout by the scenery, the spirit of the country and the history, told you by men and by silent landmarks and tokens along the way."

"The trip from Colorado Springs to Salt Lake City by auto over the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway leaves the memory full of pleasant impressions," said one of the members of the reliability run.

He stuck a pin here and there, and there, and still he could not satisfy himself. Nor can anyone. Life appears to start in new places, and things seem to happen. A warm, thawing day in February, the snow is suddenly covered with myriads of snow flecks looking like black new powder just spilled there. Or you may see a winged insect in the air. Or the sellside day the grass in the spring run and the catkins on the alders will have started a little; and if you look sharply, while passing along some sheltered nook or grassy slope where the sunshine lies warm on the bare ground, you will probably see a grasshopper or two. The grass hatches out under the snow, and why should not the grasshopper?—John Burroughs, "Signs and Seasons."

Up and Down. George—Dearest, I could lay down my life for you. Mabel—But, love, you talk horribly when it comes to laying up anything, don't you?—Puck.

had a year ago, soliciting for any kind of future delivery, as they are determined not to let the market slip away from them. He said that even some German houses were keeping their men active here, although no one could tell when they would be able to fill their orders. (This may be more gossip, but it indicates how eager European manufacturers are to keep the field well studied.—Commercial Cable, Albert, Haide, Box 105, Alton, Commerce Rep.)

Many Foreign Salesmen in Argentina. A man of a great deal of experience in South America told me that the business men of the United States were making a mistake in refusing to send traveling men into this territory. He assures me that the English have about five men now to three that they which assume a multitude of fantastic shapes. Each turn in the canyon brings new charms, and still the decorated walls, the rushing river that hurries itself in sinuous curves over the stony bed—until at last we pass out of the canyon directly into the delightful resort of Glenwood Springs. The ride to Rifle is most refreshing; in place of the ruggedness of the awesome canyon, we have a broad fertile valley, framed by gently rising, bright red mountains. Here the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway leaves the railroad and turns north, through a country of cult, pleasing but varied beauty, to Meeker, an inland town in the broad, fertile valley of White river. After leaving the rich, irrigated land, much of the country is not particularly interesting, but between Rangely and the Utah line is the only section of desert, 25 miles, traversed by this highway. As soon as we cross over into Utah we reach a graded road, through flat tableland skirted with rolling, rocky hills. Jensen on the Green river is surrounded by a fertile, well-cultivated valley, and it is most refreshing to come into this prosperous agricultural country which continues as the road to the railroad, through the Utah basin. To the weary traveler, Vernal is an oasis in a desert; some day a railroad will run through this country, and when it does, this will be one of the richest and most desirable sections in the West. We pass through Fort Duchesne, an abandoned military fort; then on to Roosevelt and Myton, both new, modern, progressive towns. All the way from the Utah line to Duchesne we have good, traveled roads; here there are two auto roads to the railroad; one to Colton, 31 miles, and the other to Heber, 30 miles. The road to Provo is through Provo canyon, one of the most beautiful scenic canyons in the mountains. Provo is a modern city, picturesquely located between the mountains and Utah lake, and is an attractive place to visit. A splendid graded road, running sufficiently high above the great Utah valley to give a pleasing view of mountain and plain and fields of billowing grain, completes the run into Salt Lake City.

Other things being equal, the transcontinental tourist will naturally seek the route of greatest scenic interest.

Because it does traverse the heart of the scenic country of Colorado and Utah, the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway, therefore, holds the key to the transcontinental situation. It is the natural and logical way—and its further development is assured by the states, cities, counties and communities through which it passes. Merely drawing a line on a map and giving it a name does not make a transcontinental highway, and the important fact about the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway is that the state units were already in high state of development before any effort was made to attract travel or to federate for the development of the highway.

SPRINGS NEW ONE IN HOTEL ROBBERY

Sends to Office for $100 Change and Leaves Bearer Locked In.

IN ROOM 50 MINUTES

New York Hotel Is Loser on New Scheme—Guest Beats, Ties and Robs Bellboy, Who Brings Him Change.

New York.—A 50-minute guest at the Hotel McAlpin robbed the management of $100 after knocking unconscious and binding a bellboy who had been sent to the room with the bills as change. Then he tumbled the stunned boy on to the bed, locked him in and escaped.

At 3:34 o'clock a swarthy, well-dressed man, apparently in his thirties, registered as "N. C." or "N. O. Grey, Washington" (the management preferred to believe it was "N. G.") and a $100 bill in the fourth floor, thirty-second street side of the hotel, was assigned to him.

Asks Change for $100. Just 30 minutes later Grey telephoned down to the cashier to please send him up change for $100, preferably in small bills.

Kinetic-year-old Joseph Abundini of 34 East Twenty-ninth street, a trusty boy who has been with the hotel since it was opened, was sent to the room with the money in a sealed envelope.

Grey received him with a smile, took the envelope and then seemingly dropped a quarter as if by accident. "That's for you," he said. "Pick it up."

As the boy was leaning over, the man whipped a revolver out of his pocket and struck him over the back of the head, inflicting a slight cut. Abundini toppled over, but did not lose consciousness. Grey flourished his gun and threatened to shoot if there was an outcry and then tumbled him head on to the bed and bound him with blankets, pillow slips and strips of sheets. Then he walked out, turned the lock and left the boy in the door.

Boy Gives the Alarm. Abundini wriggled around on the bed and managed to roll over to a telephone, which he upset and got the receiver in his mouth. He called the office and H. H. Bascombe, a house officer, went up with a bellboy. At the hotel hospital Dr. Ross McPherson, the hotel physician, said his injuries were not serious.

Detective Sussillo of the second branch detective bureau was unable to find anybody who saw Grey leave the hotel.

The robber had a cheap new suit case in which were found four or five shirts with the laundry marks cut out. The shirts were 14 1/2 size, obviously too small for him. The suitcase also contained a hammer, two screw drivers, a roll of sandpaper, a pair of 8 1/2 "sneakers" and a pair of 8 1/2 shoe trees.

Grey was five feet ten inches tall and weighed about 165 or 170 pounds. He had a prominent nose. He wore a brown suit, an alpaca hat and a dark overcoat.

Lucius M. Boomer, managing director of the McAlpin, said that the plan of robbery was a new one in the hotel business and he couldn't blame any hotel employee for being caught by it.
